

The Quintessential Boys, a new teen jazz group featuring two Markham residents, Quincy Bullen and Rob Christian, had its CD Release Party over the weekend. The CD, Underage, features a selection of jazz standards combined with originals. The style is eclectic—jazz with hints of funk, latin and Caribbean. The event was sold out with 150 ticket holders cheering on the Boys after every song. A highlight was when Juno-nominated jazz singer, Molly Johnson, and her sons came to enjoy the music. The Quintessential Boys have been featured on CBC radio and Jazz FM and are booked to perform at private and public events over the summer, including the Town of Markham's Canada Day celebrations at Milne Park on July 1. www.quintessentialboys.com
